Great Throngs Attend Notification Ceremonies at Marion

NOISY OVATION IS GIVEN

Delegations March on Nominee's Home in Unbroken Succession

MARION, O. — (By Associated Press.)—The Republican campaign attained full speed ahead Thursday with the formal notification here of Warren G. Harding, the party's nominee for the presidency.

The notification ceremonies, which brought to Marion most of the big leaders of the party and many thousands of Harding enthusiasts, included an acceptance speech by Senator Harding interpreting the Chicago platform and declaring the principles on which he expects the campaign to be fought.

The acceptance speech came at the end of a long program in which high pitched enthusiasm ruled the day as the visiting delegations marched on the Harding residence in unbroken succession to be received by the candidate and to pay their respects in the calm of tumultuous political emotion.

30 SPECIAL TRAINS

MARION, Ohio. — (By United Press.)—This was a great day for Harding's home town. From all over Ohio, and from many distant states, the pilgrims came.

They poured out of every train and moved in cheering detachments, thru gaily decorated streets toward the Harding home on Mount Vernon-ave for a glimpse of the candidate before going on to Garfield Park, where the formal notification ceremonies were to take place, at 3 p. m.

Automobiles came in over every road and early in the forenoon, they packed the narrow streets until seemed the place could hold no more. Newly recruited traffic, police found it difficult to cope with the jam and were content for the most part to keep all moving in the general direction of Garfield Park.

Over 30 special railroad trains were in the city.

PASS THRU COLONNADE

Visitors passed thru a colonnade as they entered Mount Vernon-ave and passed for a short time beneath the court of honor constructed by local residents in front of the Harding home, over the protest of the state and city who had desired the most simply. There was nothing to mark the Harding house for strangers, except that all faces were turned toward it. Delegations marched up waving banners and Harding pennants usually headed by a band. Marchers often wore white duck trousers and frequently a distinctive for or other unusual headgear.

The arrival of each delegation at the front porch brought Senator Harding out for a greeting. Sometimes it was only a bow and a smile. Sometimes it was an expression of thanks in a few simple words. Calls for Mrs. Harding brought her out with her husband many times.

The day's festivities got under way at 7 o'clock, when S.ator Harding came out to raise the flag on the old weather-beaten pole which stood on the McKinley lawn in Canton during his pork campaign in 1896. It was set up on the Harding lawn this week.

At the same hour, the first delegation marched up on the lawn. It was composed of 1,000 local friends and neighbors of Harding, who recently organized the Marion Harding Marching Club.

SUFFRAGE DELEGATION
A large delegation of militant suffragists was due at 10 o'clock, headed by Miss Alice Paul, of the National Woman's Party. They carried banners calling on Harding to urge a unanimous Republican vote in the Tennessee legislature in favor of the national suffrage amendment.

Two of the women, Mrs. E. H. Meyer, of Nashville, Tenn., were to describe the Tennessee situation in detail to the nominee. The women were not expected to heckle the candidate, although interest in possible complications took a bound when it was learned that 2,000 local Harding women are to be on hand to demonstrate their support of the candidate.

Anticipating the call of the Women's Party delegation, Senator Harding Wednesday night sent a telegram to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association, who is now in Nashville, saying:

"If any of the Republican members of the Tennessee assembly should ask my opinion as to their course, I would cordially recommend immediate favorable action."

The telegram was sent by Harding after a conference with a committee of the association including Miss Mary D. O'Connell, Mrs. W. H. Allen and Mrs. James Stokes, all of Ridgefield, and Mrs. George A. Seden, of Chicago.

ARRIVAL OF BAND

Arrival of the Caledonia Silver Cornet Band, in which Harding played a cornet in his youth, was the signal for much cheering. The veterans decided to resemble the band as soon as they heard Harding and were nominated and for weeks they have been practicing and polishing up the horns. They were called back from long distances for the occasion.

Increase to Help Pay Rail Workers' Demands Considered

WASHINGTON — (By United Press.)—The railroads may ask the interstate commerce commission higher rates on mail transportation to help raise revenues to meet the $600,000,000 wage award for railroad workers, railroad officials meeting here said Thursday.

At the postoffice department it was said that any increase in mail rates would probably result in higher postage charges.

Railroad officials say mail transportation rates remain practically where they were before the era of soaring prices and that the railroads are losing money on this business. It has not been definitely decided how much, if any, increase will be asked.

PASSENGER BOOST SOUGHT

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press.)—Travel on railway passenger trains will cost from one-half to one cent a mile more if the interstate commerce commission adopts the suggestion of the Association of Railway Executives for meeting the $300,000,000 added operation expenses by reason of increased wages granted to employees of the road by the labor board. A schedule of increased rates, both freight and passenger has been worked out by the executives in conference here during the last two days and this was expected to be ready Thursday for submission to the commission.

According to A. P. Thom, counsel for the railway association, in addition to increased passenger fares, increasing communication and multiple tickets and Pullman charges, the carriers will ask that milk and express transportation be allowed to bear a proportion of the increased labor expense.

Also an increase of about 8 per cent in freight charges will be asked in addition to the 23 per cent sought in order to meet the 6 per cent earnings guarantee provided in the transportation act passed by the last congress.

It is tentatively agreed by the carriers the increases on ordinary passenger travel would be half a cent a mile in the east and from three quarters to a cent in the west. The chief difficulty faced, it was said, is in making the proposed schedules conform to various state laws.

SANDUSKY — Co-operation of the druggists with the state and federal authorities in the enforcement of the prohibition amendment was urged before the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association, yesterday at Cedar Point, by State Prohibition Commissioner John S. FARMERS TO PLAN
MARKETING

Co-operative Selling Taken Up by Farm Bureau Meet

CHICAGO. — (By Associated Press.)—Plans for the marketing of grain and livestock will be formulated by the American Farm Bureau Federation in a two day conference which opens here. Delegates representing farmers' co-operative organizations throughout the country, state farm bureaus, state grain dealers' associations, farmers' unions, Society of Equity and state granges are expected.

The meeting is the result of several conferences held by the middle-west grain marketing group. J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, called the meeting for the purpose of nationalizing the new marketing system.

"We have two or three plans to consider," Mr. Howard said, "but the main one is to organize the local grain interests into an overhead organization, making it possible for the wheat growers to have control of their grain until it reaches the manufacturer. We hope to market our grain in such a way that the grower will have a stable market rather than the 'feast and famine' system that we now have."

"Just last year the consumer paid $50,000,000 for the handling of 27,500,000,000 bushels of grain that were sold on the Chicago market in a speculative way. We believe that the farmers, through a co-operative marketing system, can stabilize the market and greatly reduce the present cost of handling grain. This would be a great advantage to the consumer as well as helping the farmers."

Suffragists Find He Had Already Met Demand

MARION. — (By United Press.)—Militant suffragists swooped down on Warren G. Harding Thursday, somewhat piqued because the candidate issued his appeal for action on suffrage by the Tennessee legislature on the eve of his arrival. Militants had not counted on this sudden move by Harding, but they went thru with their program anyway and asked for candidate to use his influence for ratification.

More than 100 women, members of the National Woman's Party, representing 15 states, marched in procession, carrying banners up to Harding's front porch, headed by Alice Paul, their national chairman. Mrs. Bertha C. Moller, of Minneapolis, was in charge of the delegation.

Mrs. John Gordon Battelle, president of the Ohio Women's Republican Club, introduced the two speakers, Miss Sue S. White, Tennessee state chairman of the National Woman's Party, and Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, New York.

"We have come to you, as leader of the Republican party, to ask you to do everything in your power to urge Republicans in the Tennessee legislature to keep faith with their party's platform pledge by giving an unanimous Republican vote in Tennessee August 9," Miss White said, referring to the special session which is to meet on that date. "Will you, Senator Harding, grasp this opportunity to help your party fulfill its platform obligations?"

Mrs. Havemeyer scored the Republican party as being slow in securing ratification.

RELIEF FOR CITIES
IS PLANNED

Will Be Submitted to Coming General Assembly

COLUMBUS. — (By Associated Press.)—Prospective financial relief to cities that are in need is embodied in five proposals for taxation reform adopted by the budget committee appointed by the taxation conference two weeks ago, representing rural and city interests. These proposals, subject to approval by the conference, will be incorporated into a bill or constitutional amendment. If necessary, and submitted to the next legislature.

Included among the proposals are: That no taxing district be allowed to appropriate money in excess of its known resources; that make up of county budget commissions be changed to make city and other individual districts independent of county officers; and that all taxing districts have the same fiscal limits, the year to begin July 1.

Cost of Coal and High Freight Rates Makes Coal Soar

TO PROSECUTE PROFITEERS

State Fair Price Commissioner Will Take Action

Lima coal dealers absolve themselves from any charges of coal profiteering whatsoever.

John Pfeiffer, state fair price commissioner, Thursday planned to begin prosecution of dealers who are profiteering in the sale of coal. Instructions Wednesday from Attorney General Palmer at Washington advised that such profiteers should be turned over to district attorneys at once.

E. C. Mackenzie, manager of the Fidelity Coal company, said: "We have been forced to pay $4.75, plus the freight rate, for our coal at the mines. We are selling our soft coal at $10. You can figure the small amount of profit there."

"Absolutely, there is little in it for us. We have no coal on hand at the present time. We get a car in every other day or so—nothing sure about it," he said.

Fred L. Hammer, chief clerk of the Cliff Wood Coal company, said it was not hard to figure the small profits of their company. "We pay from $6.50 to $9 at the mines for the coal, the freight rate is $1.50 to $2.20 to Lima and we sell our product at $10.50 to $12.50. We have 50 tons on hands now unsold."

Manager Bishop of the Erie Coal Company, said: "We have been waiting and telling our customers we hope the prices at the mines will be cut 80 we can sell it to them for a decent price. We pay $8.50 at the mines for the coal, not including freight charges and other incidentals. We sell our coal for $10.50 a ton. We have about a car-load on hand. It is no trouble to figure the little profit we make," he said.

Fair Price Commissioner Pfeiffer announced the attorney general's instructions showed that the cost of production of soft coal at the mines was $2.75 a ton, but it was pointed out that a reasonable allowance should be made for freight costs and profits. The attorney general's orders followed complaint of Columbus citizens that they were forced to pay from $8 to $11 a ton.

Mr. Pfeiffer Commissioner, James B. Dugan of Lima, said he had received no orders as yet from Columbus, but expected to in a day or so. He said the only complaint he had received was that there was no coal to be had to purchase, the amount for use for domestic purposes in the city being small.

"If I think the fair price commissioner will designate a price at which all coal must be sold," Dugan said, "I believe, too, it will be only a question of time until the proposition of handling fuel will be taken over by the government," he stated.

Dugan declared he was ready, at any time, to carry out the wishes of the state fair price commissioner.

TWO YEARS TO GET
NEW P. O.

Ad Club is Busy Creating Sentiment for United Action

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt, with a committee of the Lima Ad Club, Messrs. R. E. Ashley, E. H. Kettler, Chas. Gordon and Donald John, Thursday spent part of the day with Postmaster Sullivan, making a thorough investigation of the need of a new postoffice building in Lima, and arranging to enlist the aid of other civic bodies in such a movement.

The need of a new postoffice is patent. It has been demonstrated conclusively that a larger structure is necessary to accommodate the growing business of Uncle Sam's mail department in this city. There are three other cities in the United States where the need of new post-offices is more acute than in Lima and they are slated to receive attention as quickly as possible.

Under the most favorable circumstances, it is not believed that a new federal building cannot be had for Lima for two years, but even at that the committee of the Ad Club with the mayor is convinced that no further time should be lost in starting a movement for a new building. It is quite likely that congressional action could now be under way if a united request had been made by Lima organizations and citizens.

CLEVELAND, Ohio. — Sherman Goodfriend is only two years old and therefore he can't realize just what it means to be the owner of 60 barrels of 100 proof whiskey. His father's will, filed in the probate court here Thursday, wills him the liquor.

The will stipulates that the liquor shall be sold and the proceeds held in trust for Sherman until he reaches the age of 21. Attorneys said the law prevents the sale of the whiskey in its present state and that it will have to be kept for him.

Evaporation in the intervening years will probably rob him of the full fruits of the bequest, they said.

COX NOTIFICATION,
AUGUST 7

Will Take Place at the Governor's Home, Dayton

PREPARING HIS ACCEPTANCE

Committee Will Visit Roosevelt Monday, August 9

COLUMBUS. — (By Associated Press.)—Chairman White of the Democratic national committee has announced that Saturday August 7 had been chosen as the date for notification of Governor Cox of his nomination as presidential candidate.

The following Monday August 9, was fixed for the notification of Franklin D. Roosevelt, vice presidential nominee.

Ceremonies for Governor Cox will take place at Trull's End, his home near Dayton, with those of his running mate at the Roosevelt home, Hyde Park, N. Y. Mr. Roosevelt will attend the Dayton ceremonies and Governor Cox said that it possible he will go to Hyde Park.

Governor Cox will leave here Friday to begin work on his speech of acceptance at Dayton. He plans to confine himself at Trull's End and work continuously until his address is finished. The governor said that he expected the task would require steady work all next week and he does not plan to return here until about August 1. While in Dayton he will be the city's hero at a "homecoming" celebration July 30.

Because of time necessary for press distribution of his address, Governor Cox said there was short, as he planned to have his address sent out at least a week prior to August 7.

"I hope to look myself up at Trull's End," said Governor Cox, "and get it out. I have my subjects fairly well in hand already. There are a number of vital things and then I shall have to assemble the less important, and I cannot tell yet whether the result will be a long or short address."

LEADERS CONFERENCE
The governor, Chairman White, E. H. Moore, the governor's convention manager; Wilbur W. Marsh, of Iowa, the national treasurer; George Brand and other leaders conferred further Thursday on organization and campaign affairs before Mr. White's departure for his home at Marietta and an eastern trip.

They were unable, however, to complete the special campaign committee. Mr. White said it probably could not be announced for a week.

Mr. White, after visiting New York and Washington headquarters and his family at Edgartown, Mass., will return here to Dayton for further conference with Governor Cox, the last of this month.

It has been definitely decided, Mr. White said, to keep the main Democratic headquarters at New York during the campaign. Mr. White expects to spend much of his time there. Central headquarters will be at Chicago. The question of Pacific coast headquarters still is undecided.

MARSH TO HANDLE CASH
Mr. Marsh, it was stated, will have virtually complete charge of Democratic finances, in his capacity as treasurer. It is also proposed to appoint a special finance committee, which Mr. Marsh will head, in lieu of the office of director of finance created about a year ago and filled until recently by W. D. Jamieson.

Comment on William J. Bryan's nomination by the Prohibitionists was declined today by Governor Cox and he also refused to discuss approval given by Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, to Senator Harding's front porch campaign.

The governor indicated that he would have no comment on Senator Harding's speech of acceptance and also that there would be no direct reference to Mr. Harding's acceptance in the governor's speech of acceptance.

Board Refuses Workers' Request For Reopening Hearings

CHICAGO. — (By United Press.)—Seven railroad unions Thursday were reported to have definitely accepted the wage award announced Tuesday by the United States railroad labor wage board.

The Order of Railway Telegraphers positively refused to accept the award, according to information Thursday, and an order for a strike vote was said to have been issued.

The Order of Railway Conductors early Thursday had not decided its attitude, but early indications were a referendum would be taken. Similar action was said to have been ordered by other railroad crafts.

Trainmen, engineers, switchmen, shopmen, locomotive firemen and engine-men, mates and pilots were the organizations said to have definitely accepted the award.

CONFERENCES CONTINUE
Labor leaders were in an all-night conference, endeavoring to reach a common ground on the acceptability of the award. The conferences were to be continued Thursday. Intimations early Thursday were that all unions would be asked to take a referendum, making whatever recommendations desired.

The conferences of executives followed refusal of the labor board to reopen hearings on certain points. Five labor leaders appeared before the board and presented the situation they faced in deciding the acceptability of the award. The board declared to reopen hearings would mean the entire dispute would need to be reopened and they considered the award made the best possible.

That union chiefs Thursday were confident specific strikes would not break from the announcement. An unofficial strike of 200 employees of the Grand Central Hotel Wednesday night was considered the result of local conditions and not reflecting the attitude of railroad labor.

GROCERS TAKE 950

Go Via B. & O. to Toledo and Boat to Cedar Point

Nine hundred and fifty expectant Lima picnicers—50 more than originally planned for, managed to crowd themselves into two sections of a special train headed for Lake Erie, early Thursday morning.

Promptly at six o'clock one of the greatest crowds of anxious joy seekers that has ever left the city for an outing was assembled at the Baltimore and Ohio station, to join the Lima Grocers in the celebration of their annual outing at Cedar Point.

With the limit on tickets for the big affair originally placed at 900, and with the demand for tickets increasing every minute, it looked as tho a lot of Lima people were going to be disappointed in not being able to make the trip.

But the space stretchers were pressed into use and the 950 limit was cast by the boards. The grocers and their friends were off to the lake for the biggest outing since the inauguration of the annual affair. And, it is said, not a single person who appeared at the B. & O. station was left behind.

The first train left Lima at 6 o. m. with over 600 picnicers aboard. The second, which left at 6:30, took care of the overflow, with nearly 350 crammed into its cars.

The two trains discharged their passengers at the Toledo Union station, from whence a parade was formed, winding its way thru the business district and down to the wharves where a lake steamer was prepared to carry the big party to Cedar Point.

These proposals, subject to approval by the conference, will be incorporated into a bill or constitutional amendment, if necessary, and submitted to the next legislature.

Included among the proposals are: That no taxing district be allowed to appropriate money in excess of its known resources; that one up of county budget commissions be changed to make city and other independent districts independent of county officers; and that all taxing districts have the same fiscal limits, the year to begin July 1.

SHOW FIGURES TO PROVE STATEMENT

Cost of Coal and High Freight Rates Makes Coal Soar

TO PROSECUTE PROFITEERS

State Fair Price Commissioner Will Take Action

Lima coal dealers absolve themselves from any charges of coal profiteering whatsoever.

John Pfeiffer, state fair price commissioner, Thursday planned to begin prosecution of dealers who are profiteering in the sale of coal. Instructions Wednesday from Attorney General Palmer at Washington advised that such profiteers should be turned over to district attorneys at once.

E. C. Mackenzie, manager of the Fidelity Coal company, said: "We have been forced to pay $4.75, plus the freight rate, for our coal at the mines. We are selling our soft coal at $10. You can figure the small amount of profit there."

"Absolutely, there is little in it for us. We have no coal on hand at the present time. We get a carload every other day or so—nothing sure about it," he said.

Fred L. Hammer, chief clerk of the Cliff Wood Coal company, said it was not hard to figure the small profits of their company. "We pay from $5.50 to $8.00 at the mines for the coal, the freight rate is $1.50 to $2.20 to Lima and we sell our product for $10.50 to $12.50. We have 50 tons on hands now unsold," he stated.

Manager Bishop of the Erie Coal Company, said: "We have been waiting for falling coal quotations. We have made prices at the mines for a decent price. We pay $8.50 at the mines for the coal, not including freight charges and other incidentals. We sell our coal for $10.50 a ton. We have about a car-load on hand. It is no trouble to figure the little profit we make," he said.

Fair Price Commissioner Pfeiffer announced the attorney general's instructions showed that the costs of production of soft coal at the mines was $2.75 a ton, but it was pointed out that reasonable allowances should be made for freight costs and profits. The attorney general's orders followed complaint of Columbus citizens that they were forced to pay from $8 to $11 a ton.

Fair Price Commissioner James B. Dugan of Lima, said he had received no orders as yet from Columbus, but expected to in a day or so. He said the only complaint he had received was that there was no coal to be had to purchase, the amount for use for domestic purposes in the city being small.

"I think the fair price commissioner will designate a price at which all coal must be sold," Dugan said. "I believe, too, it will be only a question of time until the proposition of handling fuel will be taken over by the government," he stated.

Dugan declared he was ready, at any time, to carry out the wishes of the state fair price commissioner.

TWO YEARS TO GET NEW P. O.

Ad Club is Busy Creating Sentiment for United Action

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt, with a committee of the Lima Ad Club, Messrs. R. E. Ashley, E. H. Kettler, Chas. Gordon and Donald John, Thursday spent part of the day with Postmaster Sullivan, making a thorough investigation of the need of a new postoffice building in Lima, and arranging to exhibit the aid of other civic bodies in such a movement.

The need of a new postoffice is patent. It has been demonstrated conclusively that a larger structure is necessary to accommodate the growing business of Uncle Sam's mail department in this city. There are three other cities in the United States where the need of new post-offices is more acute than in Lima and they are acutely to receive attention as quickly as possible.

Under the most favorable circumstances, it is not believed that new federal building cannot be had for Lima for two years, but even at that the committee of the Ad Club with the mayor is convinced that no further time should be lost in starting a movement for a new building. It is quite likely that congressional action could now be under way if a united request had been made by Lima organizations and citizens.

The driver of the machine, whose name Peterson did not know and who is also believed to have been injured, has not been found. The injured couple were picked up by a passing automobile and taken to a Massillon hospital where Mrs. Peterson died a short time later.

Boy, 2 Years Old, Owns 60 Barrels Of Whiskey

CLEVELAND, Ohio. — Sherman Goodfellow is only two years old and therefore he can't realize just what it means to be the owner of 60 barrels of 100 proof whiskey. His father's will, filed in the probate court here Thursday, wills him the liquor.

The will stipulates that the liquor shall be sold and the proceeds held in trust for Sherman until he reaches the age of 21. Attorneys said the law prevents the sale of the whiskey in its present state and that it will have to be kept for him.

Evaporation in the intervening years will probably rob him of the full fruits of the bequest, they said.

COX NOTIFICATION, AUGUST 7

Will Take Place at the Governor's Home, Dayton

PREPARING HIS ACCEPTANCE

Committee Will Visit Roosevelt Monday, August 9

COLUMBUS. — (By Associated Press).—Chairman White of the Democratic national committee has announced that Saturday August 7 had been chosen as the date for notification of Governor Cox of his nomination as presidential candidate.

The following Monday August 9, was fixed for the notification of Franklin D. Roosevelt, vice presidential nominee.

Ceremonies for Governor Cox will take place at Trail's End, his home near Dayton, with those of his running mate at the Roosevelt home, Hyde Park, N. Y. Mr. Roosevelt will attend the Dayton ceremonies and Governor Cox said that it possible he will go to Hyde Park.

Governor Cox will leave here Friday to begin work on his speech of acceptance at Dayton. He plans to confine himself at Trail's End and work continuously until his address is finished. The governor said that he expected the task would require steady work all next week and he does not plan to return here until about August 11. While in Dayton he will be the city's hero at a "homecoming" celebration July 28.

Because of time necessary for press distribution of his address, Governor Cox said time was short, as he planned to have his address sent out at least a week prior to August 7.

"I hope to lock myself up at Trail's End," said Governor Cox, "and get it out. I have my subjects fairly well in hand already. There are a number of vital things and then I shall have to assemble the less important, and I cannot tell yet whether the result will be a long or short address."

PARTY LEADERS CONFERENCE

The governor, Chairman White, E. H. Moore, the governor's convention manager, Wilbur W. Marsh, of Iowa, the national treasurer, George Brand and other leaders conferred further Thursday on organization and campaign affairs before Mr. White's departure for his home at Hyde Park and an eastern trip. They were unable, however, to complete the special campaign committee. Mr. White said it probably could not be announced for a week.

Mr. White, after visiting New York and Washington headquarters and his family at Edgartown, Mass., will return here or to Dayton for further conference with Governor Cox, the last of this month.

It has been definitely decided, Mr. White said, to keep the main Democratic headquarters at New York during the campaign. Mr. White expects to spend much of his time there. Central headquarters will be at Chicago. The question of Pacific coast headquarters still is undecided.

MAIRIED TO HANDLE CASH

Mr. Marsh, it was stated, will have virtually complete charge of the campaign's finances. He is also expected to be in charge of the appointment of a special finance committee, which Mr. Marsh will head, in lieu of the office of director of finance created about a year ago and filled until recently by W. D. Jamieson.

Comment on William J. Bryan's nomination by the Republicans was declined today by Governor Cox and he also refused to discuss approval given by Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, to Senator Harding's front porch campaign.

The governor indicated that he would have no comment on Senator Harding's speech of acceptance and also that there would be no direct reference to Mr. Harding's address in the governor's speech of acceptance.

AWARD REJECTED BY WIRE MEN

Referendum Called by Several Other Organizations, Report

SEVEN ACCEPTED INCREASES

Board Refuses Workers' Request For Reopening Hearings

CHICAGO. — (By United Press).—Seven railroad unions Thursday were reported to have definitely accepted the wage award announced Tuesday by the United States railroad labor wage board.

The Order of Railway Telegraphers positively refused to accept the award, according to information Thursday, and an order for a strike vote was said to have been issued.

The Order of Railway Conductors early Thursday had decided its attitude, but early indications were a referendum would be taken. Similar action was said to have been ordered by other railroad crafts.

Tramway, engineers, switchmen, shopmen, locomotive firemen and engineers, mates and pilots were the organizations said to have definitely accepted the award.

CONFERENCE CONTINUES

Labor leaders were in an allnight conference, endeavoring to reach a common ground on the acceptability of the award. The conference was to be continued Thursday. Intimations early Thursday were that all unions would be asked to take a referendum, making whatever recommendations desired.

The conference of executives followed refusal of the labor board to reopen hearings on certain points. Five labor leaders appeared before the board and presented the situation they faced in deciding the acceptability of the award. The board declared to reopen hearings would mean the entire dispute would need to be reopened and they considered the award made the best possible.

Rail union chiefs Thursday were confident sporadic strikes would not break from an announcement. An unofficial report of 200 employees of the Grand Rapids here Wednesday night was expected to reflect the local conditions and not reflecting the attitude of railroad labor.

GROCERS TAKE 950 ON EXCURSION

Go Via B. & O. to Toledo and Boat to Cedar Point

Nine hundred and fifty specialist Lima planters—50 more than originally planned for, managed to crowd themselves into two sections of a special train headed for Lake Erie, early Thursday morning.

Promptly at six o'clock one of the greatest crowds of anxious joy-seekers that has ever left the city for an outing was assembled at the Baltimore and Ohio station, to join the Lima Grocers in the celebration of their annual outing at Cedar Point.

With the limit on tickets for the big affair originally placed at 900, and with the demand for tickets increasing every minute, it looked as if a lot of Lima people were going to be disappointed in not being able to make the trip.

But the space stretchers were pressed into use and the 900 limit was cast by the boards. The grocers and their friends were off to the lake for the biggest outing since the inauguration of the annual affair. And, it is said, not a single person who appeared at the B. & O. station was left behind.

The first train left Lima at 6 o. m. with over 600 planters aboard. The second, which left at 6:30, took care of the overflow, with nearly 250 crammed into its cars.

The two trains discharged their passengers at the Toledo Union station, from whence a parade was formed, winding its way thru the business district and down to the wharves where a lake steamer was prepared to carry the big party to Cedar Point.

COLUMBUS. — (By Associated Press).—Roy E. Layton, adjutant general of Ohio, received from the war department a French Croix de Guerre with bronze star, awarded to the headquarters and supply company of the first anti-aircraft battalion, which was composed mostly of Ohio soldiers. It was requested that the decoration be placed on file with the archives of that organization.

The citation accompanying the medal said: "This unit for several months occupied a position frequently reached by enemy artillery fire, courageously supported numerous bombardments and unceasingly fulfilled its mission."

HARDING SCORES NATION LEAGUE AS "SUPREME BLUNDER"

HITS PACT IN HIS ACCEPTANCE

Immediate Declaration of Peace Promised by Nominee

PLEDGES 'CAPACITY' CABINET

Opinion Divided on Prohibition, G. O. P. Chief Says

MARION, Ohio. — (By United Press).—Immediate declaration of peace and a new effort to hold an association of all nations, based on justice, rather than force, was promised by Warren G. Harding, in formally accepting the Republican presidential nomination Thursday.

Scoring the league of nations covenant as the "supreme blunder," he lauded the senators who opposed its unqualified ratification as "sentinels on the towers of constitutional government." The nominee was silent regarding ratification of the treaty or the league in case he is elected.

Harding opened his address with a broadside at "personal, dictatorial and autocratic government."

He said no man is big enough to run this great republic.

MANY QUESTIONS TOUCHED

"Our first commitment," he continued, "is the restoration of representative popular government under the constitution thru the agency of the Republican party."

The speech delivered at Garfield Park here in the presence of thousands assembled from all corners of the nation, dealt with a multitude of questions. Some were barely touched upon, being dismissed with the announcement that they will be fully discussed in later addresses.

Preserved nationality with America retaining her independence, at the not holding aloof from the rest of the world should be the guiding spirit, Harding said.

The candidate stressed the necessity of a return to party government and pledged himself to cooperate loyally with congress and to select a cabinet of "highest capacity," in which the vice-president should select.

As to prohibition there is divided opinion and the recourse to repeal or modification is open. "but we cannot nullify because of divided opinion," he said, "and the law must be enforced."

We must have a "plain and neighborly" understanding with Mexico regarding American rights, but our relations should be "friendly and sympathetic," he said.

Touching on unrest, he declared the remedy does not lie in repression and that freedom of press, speech and assembly must be preserved.

High wages should continue, but with them full value for the wage earner, he said. Collective bargaining was endorsed.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

Harding offered no remedy for the high cost of living save increased production and thrift. But he pledged a sincere effort to stamp out profiteering, reduce the money inflation and wipe out government inefficiency.

Reaffirming his opposition to government ownership of railroads, he declared the present transportation difficulties are due partly to the "withholding of government operation," and urged that the government do its part in repairing operation.

The protective tariff will again be called for, he predicted, reaffirming his belief in "its saving Americanism."

He touched on the needs of agriculture, endorsed the budget plan, merchant marine, ample naval preparedness and a small army, abundant aid for ex-service men and woman's suffrage. He asked revision of taxation to meet present needs, action to increase the price of Liberty and Victory bonds and federal aid to stamp out lynching.

As to formal peace, Senator Harding said:

"I promise you formal and effective peace as quickly as a Republican congress can pass legislation for a Republican executive to sign."

REUNION BRINGS ECHOES OF OLD FRONTIER DAYS

Bob Pyron, Millionaire Oil Operator, Meets Children in This City

Gives Wife Credit for His Early Success—Is Proud of Grandsons

Recollections of early years spent on the Texas frontier, when it was then known as the "wild and woolly west" were brought to mind Thursday at the first reunion in years of Bob Pyron, influential millionaire oil operator, Cleveland and his four daughters. The reunion which was rather unusual, was held today at the Hotel Norval where luncheon was served, and later at the home of his oldest daughter, Mrs. L. G. MacMillan.

Mr. Pyron is well known in this locality. He has extensive oil interests in the southwest, and is connected with a number of local oil operators in various concerns.

The four daughters, three of whom are from Texas, have with them their seven children all boys. They are Mrs. H. G. Gardenhire and sons H. C. Jr., Bob and Elmer, Eastland, Texas. Because of pressing business, Mr. Gardenhire was unable to attend the reunion. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Schwab and son Bob are from Austin, Texas; and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hupp, and son Bob from Dallas, Texas; and Mrs. L. G. MacMillan, who reside in Lima, have two sons, Pyron and Jack.

Following the luncheon Thursday noon at the Norval, a flashlight picture of the family was taken, and they later repaired to the MacMillan home for the remainder of the day.

Mr. Pyron in recalling the days of his early life, compared with the life of the Norval, a flash of his youth and told of the Texas frontier, 150 miles from a railroad. In his boyhood the Indians and buffaloes roamed the country. Life was mostly a continual warfare against covetous rattlesnakes and prairie dogs. At the age of 12 he commenced his career in the cattle business, and for eight years served in the Texas ranger service, in the territory between Brownsville and El Paso. He branded cattle, handled his own ranches and did practically every kind of work in the line until the great Texas oil boom, when he started in the oil business.

He soon learned that he could make more profits in from 30 to 90 days in oil well drilling, than in all of his years spent cattle raising. When still quite young he married a girl who was also on the Texas frontier, and they were the parents of four daughters. The early years of his daughters' lives were spent on cattle ranches and they learned to ride bronchos, rope cows, shoot most everything of kind of firearm, and found up a herd of cattle.

When older they went to colleges and finishing schools, and later married men who like their father are interested in the oil game. Mr. Pyron owes all of his success, and the happiness of his life, to his little woman, his wife now deceased who stood by him in his early years, and shared the hardships of the old-time Texas frontiers.

He would not for any money blot out the memories of his early years in the wild and woolly west, and he is exceedingly proud of his four daughters, and doubly proud of the seven little grandsons several of whom are named after him.

O. E. RETURNS NEW WAGE CONTRACT

Asks That Old Agreement With Employees be Continued

INCREASED PAY IS ASKED

Other Provisions Embodied in Instrument Submitted

Declaring that the financial condition of the Ohio Electric Railway company will not permit further expansion, J. H. McClure, vice-president, has returned unsigned to interurban and street car motormen and conductors the new wage contract submitted by them several days ago. He asks that the old contract, which expires August 15, be continued as a working basis.

Following is a copy of the letter written to the union men under date of July 20:

Dear Sirs:

Your communication in the form of a proposed agreement between your various Locals and this Company has been received and has been given very careful consideration.

The financial position of the Company must be the determining factor as to what it can or cannot pay.

You are well aware of the fact that increases in street car fares have been made several times in the past few months, and that in this time such increases have been denied, or at least a small increase in fare in Zanesville. Notwithstanding these denials of increased rates, this Company, in the last 12 months has very materially increased its payroll, and has paid out over a half million dollars, in its various departments, your members receiving the greatest percentage increase.

The Company is now confronted with the question where can it get sufficient revenue to pay operating expenses, taxes and maintain the physical plant of the property in a safe operating condition.

In view of the above I would like to suggest that the agreement which we have with you be continued until some of these questions are out of the way.

We are, therefore, returning you the agreement with the request that you consider the same in the light of a view of having them take the necessary action to extend the existing agreement.

Yours very truly,
J. H. McCLURE,
Vice President.

The new contract which the various organizations employed by the O. E. submitted embodies a number of sections, a summary of which is given herewith in the order in which they appear in the contract.

1—Agreement by the company to meet and treat with accredited officers and committees of the union on all grievances.

2—that the company shall refuse after 30 days' trial to keep in its employ any member of the association (union) who may prove unsatisfactory to the association and that no person shall act as motorman or conductor without becoming a member of the association, thus providing for a closed shop.

3—that those securing positions as motormen or conductors shall first secure permission of at least two members of the executive committee of the association. Provisions for the seniority list also are made.

4—Work day figured on a basis of 10 hours. All runs to pay for 10 hours. All time over 10 hours at overtime rate and with provisions for trippers and deadheading.

5—Officers of association to have leave of absence whenever business of association requires.

6—Provisions for hearings of employees against whom charges are preferred.

7—Free annual transportation books for employees on city and interurban lines. Also trip passes for dependent members of employees' families to be available upon request.

8—Provisions for posttime seniority list to grow longer.

9—Provisions for reinstatement of employees absent thru selection as officers of association upon expiration of time.

10—Wages to be paid all motormen and conductors shall be on the following scale:

First three months service, 75 cents per hour.

Next nine months service 77 cents per hour.

One year and after, 80 cents per hour.

Additional 10 cents per hour for freight train crew.

Time and one-half for overtime.

11—Provisions for additional pay (not less than one hour a day) for teaching new men; making out accident report.

12—Employees forced to move from one city to another by reason of their runs being changed to have goods and furniture moved in freight cars of company free of charge.

13—Provisions for arbitration of any matter which cannot be settled either party may ask for arbitration to be picked, one by the company, one by the association and the third to be selected by these two.

14—City conductors in Lima, Zanesville and Newark to be furnished with $20 working funds. Provisions for comfort of trainmen on their runs.

15—Vacation of 15 days with pay for all trainmen in employ of company for at least one year.

16—All cars to be operated by two competent men, motorman and conductor.

17—Pledge of association to loyalty and interest of company.

18—Agreement effective until July 31, 1921.

Interurban trainmen now are receiving hourly pay ranging from 41 to 50 cents an hour. Street car men receive from 33 to 47 cents an hour. No arrangements have been made for a conference of the company officials and employees. It was said by both sides today. McClure said he had no comment on the matter further than that it is being considered.

LIMA CROWD AT MARION SMALLER THAN EXPECTED

About 100 Republicans and Harding boosters from Lima and vicinity boarded the 10:22 train on the Erie Thursday, to attend the Harding nomination assembly at Marion. Extra coaches had been provided, but the Lima delegation was not as large as expected. A number of Republicans from Alger, Spencerville and Harrod boarded the train at those towns. It is stated that a number of Harding enthusiasts made the trip by motor, as it is but a several hours ride.

MEN AS WHOLE ARE SATISFIED

Local View of Big Wage Advance For Rail Employees

Lima railroaders as a whole are satisfied with the $600,000,000 advance in wage granted by the Labor board and announced Tuesday.

This statement must be qualified to the extent that in some classes of the work, none are satisfied, but in particular classes, the advance was not what was being expected.

One of the best posted officials in the city who refused to permit his name to be used, stated to the News and Times-Democrat that he believed all the time-railroad men as a class were satisfied, except the trainmen and switchmen. In these two branches the great majority of employees are young men, many of whom have taken up the work in the past three to four years.

The clerical and shop employees are quite generally satisfied with this operating official stated, and engineers, conductors and firemen, it is believed will not join in any strike or dissension.

Along to the increase being passed along to the ultimate consumer, a well posted official said. "Based on the new wage schedule, the higher taxes, the increase in the cost of fuel and equipment, no railroad in the United States can from this day forward maintain a lower price for freight and passenger service."

"In my study of the situation it will require an increase of freight rates of thirty percent and of passenger service of twenty-five percent, but means lighter prices for everything we eat, we wear, we build and we buy."

CEMENT SHORTAGE ACUTE IN LIMA

Car Shortage Holds up Shipments and Retards Work

Inability to secure cement, due to car shortage and consequent impaired shipments, is resulting in building operations in Lima being hampered to a great extent, dealers say. Orders filed by Lima dealers are not bringing results, and cement is plentiful and at some of the plants temporary sheds are erected to protect the supply from the weather. The price remains high, even higher than during the war and there is no prospect of lower prices at this time.

At the office of the Consumers' Fuel Supply Co. Thursday it was stated that a car of cement is received only occasionally and that the supplies received are not sufficient to meet the demand. "Cement certainly is hard to get. We received a car load Wednesday, the first in seven weeks. The car should have reached Lima June 1st. The car commission has discriminated against the shipment of building materials, sand, gravel, lumber, etc., due to car shortage, which creates the anxiety of the commission to get vast grain crops moved. We are able to get cement and other building material only as supply companies are able to secure cars being returned to the grain fields. Cement is plentiful but the price is high, $4.45 per barrel in sacks. This is $1.35 higher than during the war."

The Fidelity Coal & Supply Co. reported inability to secure cement, due to car shortage and a strike at the mill from which its supply is usually drawn.

TO MAKE DRIVE ON "MOOCHERS"

Auto Club Men Hear Addresses, Plan to Increase Numbers

Following a smoker by the members of the Lima Auto Club Wednesday night at the Shawnee Country Club, it was announced that the club had voted to spend $395 for the purpose of erecting signs on all roads within a radius of 30 miles, and leading them into Lima. Fifty large signs and 1,000 small red arrow signs will be put up, to direct tourists.

Attorney Walter Jackson and Assistant Prosecuting attorney Eugene Lippincott spoke on "Safety of Motorists." One of the points brought out by Attorney Lippincott, is that auto drivers should not permit children under 16 years of age to drive their cars, as many accidents result from the breaking of this rule.

A number of new membership applications were received, and it is hoped to increase the membership from 400 to 1,000 by the first of the year 1921. The slogan for the membership drive which will be conducted in the near future is "Are You a Mocher?" The Mochers are those who enjoy the fruits of another's efforts without contributing either their share of effort or expense.

JAMES' TROUBLES MULTIPLY

Continental Man, Held for Forgery, Made Divorce Defendant

Another chapter in the affairs of F. James, accused forger, was written Thursday, when his wife, Mary Luella James, entered suit for divorce from him in Putnam-co. courts at Ottawa.

In her petition she charges he was arrested while on his honeymoon and is now facing a charge of forgery.

Their wedding was an event of social prominence in Continental in June. Refusal of his bride's father to go on his honeymoon required James to languish in jail. He is now in the Putnam-co. hospital at Ottawa, being held on a like charge as the one on which he was arrested in Lima. James was removed to the Ottawa jail Tuesday from Lima, where he has been confined since his arrest a few days after his marriage upon charges of Lima merchants that he had written worthless checks.

$4,860 PAY FOR SERVICES IS ASKED BY HOUSEKEEPER

Sarah A. Shelley, who says she served 84 months as housekeeper for Stephen M. Parks, 78, 969 Richlie-ave, sued Parks Thursday for $4,860 alleged to be due for services.

She says that for the past 15 months he has been in poor health and she demands $100 a month for her services during that time. Previous to that, she asks pay at the rate of $40 a month.

She worked on the farm and cared for all the duties usually incumbent upon a farm woman from June 1, 1911, until June 1, 1918, she says.

That he purchased the property on Richlie-ave, taking title in his own name, instead of giving it to her as he promised, she charges. She says he has also failed to comply with a promise to pay her $1,000.

Eastern Section of Fawcett Park to be Beautified

Plans are being perfected by the park committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs, assisted by Service Director Elmer McClain, for the improvement of the eastern section of Fawcett Park, at the extreme end of S. Charles-st. A short time ago council voted to appropriate $375 for labor and materials for the improvement of the Fawcett Park.

The flower gardens have already been laid out in the main part of the park and there is expected to be sufficient funds to improve the eastern section of the park, according to Service Director McClain. The committee is now looking for a plot of the park when it was first planned, but so far have been unable to find it.

This ground has been used for years as a dumping ground, and as it is in the residential section of the city it does not add in its present condition to the attractiveness of that part of town, according to Mrs. H. H. Starret, chairman of the park committee. The ground which includes something like 10 or 12 acres, will be graded, seeded, and a bridge path made. It is planned to start improvement work within the next week or so.

WATCH BURIED THREE YEARS; WOUND, RUNS

Mrs. William Harshey, Delphos, is rejoicing over the recovery of a gold watch which she lost three years ago while working in the garden. The watch was found by people who are now residing in a house occupied by Mrs. Harshey and family at the time she lost the watch. It was still in very good condition when found, and upon being wound, ticked away as the nothing unusual had occurred.

DECREE, CHILDREN GIVEN WIFE

Like Charges Made by Both Parties in Divorce Action

Judge H. W. Blachly, Van Wert, granted a divorce to Mrs. Hazel V. Shafer from Frank R. Shafer, Thursday. The case was heard before Judge Blachly a week ago.

The decree was granted on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and desertion. The custody of their three children, Noble, 9; Norman, 8 and Beula, 5, was given to the wife until further order of the court. Shafer must pay his wife $5 a week for the support of the children.

Mrs. Shafer filed the suit in February, not knowing of the whereabouts of her husband. A few weeks later he filed an answer to her action.

Each made like charges. She said he kept company with other women, frequenting saloons, refusing to work and failing to provide for his family. Shafer, in his answer, named Cornelius Wesley and Edward Summers as men in whom his wife was interested and declared George Vernon had given his wife money to file the suit. He charged she kept company with other men and with them frequented wine rooms.

Four different times, he said, he took her back and as many times she left him.

They were married in Dupont on March 6, 1910.

L. L. ASH SUES CITY FOR DAMAGE TO LOT

Leonard L. Ash, 836 E. High-st, has filed suit for $500 against the City of Lima.

Ash charges the lot just back of his residence, used as a garden, was appropriated when the Ottawa river was improved and part of it totally destroyed, the dirt being used to reinfence other properties. He says the lot was used to make a part of the river bed.

THE "WOMANLY WOMAN"

A STATEMENT appearing in a magazine has it that the "womanly woman" is out of date. "She went out with mid-Victorianism," the writer states, "together with the unhygienically long skirts that swept the dust, and the tendency to faint at opportune moments."

It is a libel on the womanly woman to picture her as necessarily associated with mid-Victorianism! The womanly woman was never dependent for her womanliness upon the length of her skirt, tho there is an opposite extreme at which she will always hesitate. The old-fashioned skirt may have swept the dust and picked up many microbes, but at least it was kept clean of the cheap jokes perpetrated by jaded humorists who employ the short skirt to lengthen their copy.

Fashions change, but they never can go far enough, one way or the other, to crowd out the womanly woman. Mother Eve may have been just as much a womanly woman as the mid-Victorian matron with more dress material than would suffice to clothe the feminine part of a modern family.

As for "the tendency to faint at opportune moments," tho it was mid-Victorian—particularly in romantic fiction—it was never womanly, when not real. To be womanly a woman does not need to be affectedly weak any more than to be manly a man must be deliberately rough, or to use the cant of the hour, cavemanly.

The slumbering, swooning, prune-and-prismy woman of the past century was no more representative of true womanliness than is the demi-masculine semi-feminine freak of the period. Both may be regarded as nothing more than temporary excrescences. The eternal feminine remains, and the eternal feminine is the womanly woman.

PRESIDENTIAL DUTIES

A WORKER in a navy yard had some trouble with his teeth. It was not a personal matter, for he had lost his molars or incisors or bicuspidis, or whatever they were, while in the execution of his duty.

As his employer, Uncle Sam was morally and legally responsible for furnishing the man with a new set of grinders, but as there was no government department of dentistry and no secretary for false teeth, it was necessary for congress to pass a special appropriation bill and finally to submit the dental document for the signature of the president.

The item was no joke to that navy yard worker. His pay was not such as to make a trifle of the payment of $32 for a plate or bridge for his mouth. While waiting for the congressional appropriation and the president's signature he must have had anxious moments and moods that were not calculated to improve his digestion.

But think of the president of the United States, the chief executive of the greatest nation on earth, having to pause in his deliberations on national and international problems to consider the question of signing or vetoing a bill for a set of false teeth!

Most of us seem to think there is something funny about false teeth, but is that bill any more absurd than a thousand and one other items of a trivial nature submitted for the president's consideration?

One is impelled to an expression of the belief that we should not load down the chief executive with details that would distress the dignity of a village mayor. There are questions of greater moment to absorb his attention—but that doesn't help the fellow who loses his teeth while in line of duty and feels that the government should do the next best thing for him by providing false ones.

THOSE GOOD OLD MELON DAYS!

THE good old days are gone! "Water-melons, 10 cents apiece!" The old wagon was heaped high with the luscious melons as it creaked along the street behind the tired horses.

"Watermelons, 10 cents apiece! Water-melons!" the peddler would chant, accenting in turn "the third and fourth syllables" of the word.

And, hearing this familiar song mother would rush out to the street with a sun-bonnet over her head and ask if the melons were ripe and sweet.

"If you don't take my word for it, I'll plug one for you," the vendor would reply and then he would proceed to cut out a triangular piece and let mother and the kids taste it.

Those were the days! At 10 cents each, mother could afford to buy two at a time and there were two slices for each of the members of the family at the big feast in the evening when the melons were brought in state to the table.

These are tender memories that must come back to every man of 30 or over, for whom desire is balked in these high-cost times when he discovers that the tempting, rich, red slice on the restaurant counter costs up to 25 cents.

He turns his longing eyes sadly away and orders prunes for dessert instead.

Good old watermelon days are gone!

Shall We Suppress Tobacco?
There are rumors of a campaign to prohibit the sale and use of tobacco in the United States. Similar incredible rumors floated about the country concerning the suppression of alcoholic indulgence for several years before the deed was done. The brewers, saloon-keepers and whiskey merchants defied suppression and obstinately, if not blindly, persisted in the evil ways; whereas, had they heard the warning and minded some of their methods and practices, the blow might have been withheld or at least materially softened. Tobacco merchants and tobacco users who now ridicule the idea of suppressing this much abused drug should see the moral and conduct themselves with circumspection. There are a great many users of tobacco, as there were many users of alcoholic beverages, who would join the side of prohibition, if necessary, in order to put a stop to unmitigated abuse.

When a boy or girl can obtain and use tobacco, that constitutes a shameful abuse of privilege for sale, and the crook who profits from such enterprise ought to be put out of business, for he is a bad egg.

The smoker who inflicts his second-hand fumigation on non-smokers anywhere should be suppressed as a public nuisance, just as we would suppress a man who travels about impregnating the atmosphere with iodoforn.

The exploiter of tobacco for youths, who resort to lascivious pictures, the country's flag or uniform, or the misrepresentation of mental application or athletic prowess as a thing to seek by the aid of tobacco in order to market his goods, invites forcible suppression and hastens the coming of the rumored crusade.

Right now it may seem absurd to think of men growing surreptitious patches of tobacco out behind the garage or paying enormous prices to smugglers who bring a very inferior weed thru the revenue cordon a few years hence. I make a prophecy, because I fell down badly on prohibition, which I optimistically predicted for 1920.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This day is not fortunate. Business men will be subject to much anxiety and to fears which prevent an enlargement of their enterprises.

It is not a lucky day for making changes or for seeking positions. Speculations in oil should be avoided under this rule.

A change in the marriage laws and a betterment of conditions for women, both industrially and domestically is predicted by the stars.

Persons whose birthday this day should give most of their time to business this year if they wish to avoid loss.

Children born today will be talented but inclined to laziness. (Copyright, 1920)

Here hangs in the July desert
A very disturbing sign.

JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHELPS

LENA ATTACKS HORACE

I can't explain why, but I had almost exactly the same little disappointed feeling over Kenneth's letter as I had over Jack Pryor's proposal. It seemed that Kenneth took it altogether too coolly; that he should not have so easily acquiesced to Mother's wishes.

Not that I really wanted him to disobey Mother, but I wanted him to try and make her willing; to write her and to object, or something like that. I wasn't quite sure just what I wanted him to do; but hazy I felt he was not enough in love with me, altho I didn't use the word "love" even in my thoughts—it was "liked me enough."

Of course I gave Mother my promise. So I could not answer and tell Kenneth how longingly I would wait for his letter, or disagree with him as to the time passing quickly. At 19 a year looks like an eternity.

I would be a little over 20 years old before I could either receive a letter from him, or write him one. He might find someone to marry before that time—I tormented myself with this thought. Then he wouldn't want to write me; it wouldn't be nice.

Oh, dear! How hard things were when one was just a girl! I read a book about this time in which the heroine declared "the world was finished for her; that life held no further attraction." I felt something like that for a few days. Then Edith Wren gave a dance—rather her mother did for her—and in the excitement of a new dress off, I was all the nicer to Mr. Sanders, and then danced with Gregory Stuart after I had refused to fox-trot with Jack.

Gregory wasn't much better. He too, sneered about Mr. Sanders' attention to me. Finally I became peevish and told him to shut up. It wasn't very ladylike and Mother would have been shocked. But I had known Gregory all my life, and I wasn't going to have him spoil all my pleasure by grouching.

"I'll bet he knows to a penny what your Father's worth." Then, "He's an old fortune hunter and everybody knows it."

"Aren't you ashamed of yourself! I never met him until to-night. One would think I was planning to elope with him to hear you and Jack talk."

"My, hear the Oracle!" I snapped, and then said I was tired. I would sit out the rest of the dance rather than be scolded and made miserable.

"Mr. Sanders is awfully taken with you, Zena. We girls are all jealous as the dickens," Edith said. And Claudia Shepard, who came up just in time to hear her, added:

"I should say we are! Here Jack and Gregory are sulking so they are no fun because you've taken the most attractive man in the room for yourself. Oh, well! Perhaps if Mr. Sanders marries you, Jack and Gregory will condescend to look at us."

It was silly, but I felt proud that I could attract a man like Mr. Sanders, and that the girls were jealous. Tomorrow—A Message from Kenneth. (Copyright, 1920)

YOUR NAME

By Philip Francis Nowlan

VARIATION—Hobson, Hopkinson, RACIAL ORIGIN—English.

SOURCE—A given name. Hopkins, which of course is simply a shortened form of the name Hopkinson, does not sound a bit like Robert. Yet it is from one of the forms of that given name that this group of family names has developed.

Paradoxically, the Hopkins, the Hobsons, the Hopkinsons, the Hobbs and the Hobys trace back to Anglo-Saxon blood for the most part, rather than Norman blood, though the name Robert was brought into England by the Normans.

Though Robert may be classed as originally a Norman name, one nickname derived from it is distinctly Anglo-Saxon, namely, "Hob." It was not at first a popular name among the suburban conquest, but following the thrum fame of one Hob, who won the archery championship of Sherwood Forest. Archery, of course, was a calling reserved more for the Anglo-Saxon element than for the Normans, who were more given to the sword.

Had established themselves as nobility and the upper classes socially. Hopkin is a combination of "Hob" and the Anglo-Saxon ending "kin" (similar to the modern German "chen"), meaning "Little Hob." Hobbs is a shortened form of Hopkinson, or it was more likely to be spelled in those days, "Hobysen" (Hobysen), which also explains the variation Hobby.

JUDITH OF BLUE LAKE RANCH

By JACKSON GREGORY

"You'll get out of this house and do it quick!" she cried sharply. "If you think for one little minute that I'll stand for your high-handed actions, you're mistaken."

At a look from Lee, Carson stepped quickly forward, so that Hampton stood between them.

"You come with us," and now Lee no longer sought to be pleasant. "And keep still or we'll stop your mouth with a yard of cloth. This way, Carson."

With right and left arms gripped, with lagging feet and furious eyes, Hampton went between them to the door. For an instant only did he struggle; then, with a snarl of disgust, seeing the futility of making a fool of himself, he went quietly.

Just what he expected as a result of a visit to the girl's room, Lee did not know. He hoped for some sign to tell him something, anything.

Quietly the three went up the house until they came to Judith's dainty blue-and-white bedroom. Here all had been set in order by Mrs. Simpson. A great vase of roses, brought by Jose this morning, accepted with Mrs. Simpson with suspicion and searched carefully for a lurking scorpion or a coiled rattlesnake, stood on a table by the window. On entering the room a sort of awkward shyness fell over both Lee and Carson. Hampton, freed now and standing alone, though under Carson's hard eye, stared at them angrily.

"When you get through with this foolishness," he told them stiffly, "you can either apologize or call for your time."

Neither answered. Carson little by little had come to share Lee's uncertainty and anxiety; and now, like Lee, sought eagerly to find a sign—something to tell him Judith had been lured away by Trevors or Quinnion; or that she had been overpowered here and taken out, perhaps thru a window.

But Judith had gone Saturday night, and Mrs. Simpson had done her work thoroughly. It might be well to call the housekeeper and question her. Had she found a chair overturned, a rug rumpled, a table shoved a little from its accustomed place? But, again, it would be as well not to start suspicion and save one's other minds if, after all, there were no true cause for Judith's flight.

Judith might be in San Francisco; she might have sent the order to sell "Chances we're smelling powder where there wasn't no shot," said Carson hesitatingly.

"Bright boy!" mocked Hampton. "You'll make a little gumshoe artist out of these days."

Had Bud Lee not loved Judith as he did, with his whole heart and soul, it well might have been that he and Carson and Hampton would have gone out of the room knowing no more than when they had come.

in. But it seemed to Lee that the room which knew Judith so intimately, was seeking to open its dumb lips to whisper to him of danger to her. He had come here troubled or ber; he stood, looking about him frowningly. His heart heavy, fear mounting within him. And as length he found a sign.

At the far end of the room, in a corner, was Judith's writing-table, on which were several opened letters, pen and ink and a pad of paper. Lee stepped to it. If she had been lured away after night-fall, then some message had come to her. If that message had come by word of mouth, there was no need seeking it; if it had been a note, fate might have kept it here.

Impaled on a sharp file was a sheet of note-paper. The note was brief, typewritten, even to the signature—that of Doc Tripp. It ran:

Dear Judith: I am afraid of a new trouble. Have spotted another one of the gang working for us. Also have got a bullet-hole in my right hand. Nothing serious so far. Come down right away. Don't let anyone see you as I want to spring a surprise on them. Am not even using the telephone as I've a notion they're watching me. Hurry.

Tripp.

"Come back to the office," said Lee bluntly. And well in front of Carson and Hampton, who stared wondering at the paper in his hand, he went to the office telephone and called for Tripp.

"How's your hand," he asked when Tripp answered.

"All right," replied Tripp. "Why?"

"Get it hurt?"

"No."

"Did you write Miss Sanford a hurry-up note within the last few days?"

"No."

"Sure of that, Doc? Typewritten note?"

"Of course I'm sure," snapped Tripp. "What's wrong?"

"God knows," answered Lee shortly. "But you'd better come up here and come on the jump. Also, keep your mouth shut until you can get a chance to talk with me and Carson."

He clicked up the receiver and turned terrible eyes on the two men watching him.

"They've got her," he said slowly. "They've got her Carson. They've had her since Saturday night!"

Carson read the note. Only then did it pass into Hampton's hands. The boy, angered at the way in which he had been ignored, insulted in his sense of dignity by those words of Lee's to Tripp, "Talk with me or Carson," seeing the reins of power being snatched from his hands, was speechless with wrath.

"You fellows have butted in all

I'll stand for!" he cried at them, his shut fists shaking. "I tell you I'm running this outfit and what I say goes. I don't believe that Trevors or any man living would do a trick like that. I tell you it's ridiculous. And, no matter where Judith is, when she is not here I run the ranch. I need money; she needs money; we've got a fair chance to sell; I've passed my word we are going to win; and by God, we are going to sell."

In another mood, Hampton would not have spoken this way. In another mood and with time for argument, Bud Lee would have expostulated with him. Now, however, Lee said tersely:

"Carson it's up to you and me. Get the boys out, to the last man of them. Turn every hoof of cattle and horses back into the Upper End. We've got to do it tonight. Get them into the little valley above the plateau. We can hold them there, even if they try to force our hands, which will be like them. I take this to be Trevors's last big play. And, by thunder, he has mighty near gotten away with it!"

"Don't you dare to do it!" blazed out young Hampton. "Carson, you take orders from me. Get out of this house and leave the stock where they are. In the morning—"

"Go ahead, Carson," cut in Lee's hard voice. "I'll take care of Hampton here."

"You will, will you?" cried Hampton.

With one bound he was at the table, jerking open a drawer. As his hand sought the weapon lying there, Bud Lee was on him, throwing him back. Carson looked at them a moment, then went to the door.

"You're right, Bud," he said calmly as he went out.

Lee, forcing himself to show a calmness like Carson's, said gently to Hampton:

"Can't you see the play? It's up to you to kick in and stop it. There's a telephone; call up the buyers in Rocky Bend. They're there now, or at least their drivers are, if they're coming out here in the morning. Tell them the deal is off."

"Can't I see?" said Hampton, writhing out of Lee's hands, on his way to the door. "You bet I can see! If you and Carson think that you can run me—"

Then, for the good of all, Lee gave over trying to reason with him. There was too much to be done to waste time. He drew Hampton back, forcing him against the wall. As he tried to call out, Lee's hand over his mouth smothered his words.

"You're coming with me," he said sharply. "Right now."

Tho' he struggled, Hampton was little more than a baby in the horse foreman's muscular grip. Tripped, with a heel behind his calf, he fell heavily, Lee upon him. Both arms were pinioned behind him, and Lee's neckerchief thrust into his mouth. He writhed in impotent rage. His outcries died in his throat, the loudest of them not reaching Marcia's ears above the creaking of her rocking-chair. Lee still held Hampton's tied hands gripped in his own. So the two men went out the back door, down toward the corral.

So they rode into the night, headed toward the narrow passes of the Upper End, Hampton and Lee side by side, Tommy Burkitt staring after them as he followed. No longer were Bud Lee's throats with his captive, nor with the herds Carson's men were driving back to the higher pastures. They were enticed by Judith, and they were filled with her.

She had been gone for three full days; she was somewhere in the clutch of Trevors or of one of his cutthroats. He thought of the years of his life Bud Lee prayed her, of Quinnion's red-rimmed, evil eyes, and as he had not prayed in all that night.

Pass the Summer in Finest Health

Take a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin when tired, dull or constipated. Quick results!

WE cannot all spend the Summer in cool mountain resorts, and those who stay at home and sweeter through the hot days will find it necessary to be extra cautious about their health. Hot foods are easier to digest than cold, and even hot soup, though it overboils for the moment, is grateful to the system.

Above all, keep the bowels open; that in itself cools the blood and calms the nerves. But when the bowels are sluggish and show signs of constipation, take a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will get quick relief.

Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin which digests hard food for a quarter of a century. It is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world.

Syrup Pepsin is the family doctor, the chief medicinal reliance of thousands of people in constipation and ill of the stomach, liver and bowels, in warding off colds, headaches, fevers and summer complaints. Mrs. R. E. Masters of 1424 Second Ave., Birmingham, Ala., has used it in her family for twelve summers and she never misses an opportunity of telling her friends how it has many times these summer days.

SILK VOILE FROCK . FEATURES DAINTY ORGANDY TRIMMING

If you would be smart, combine some material with organdy for your summer frock wardrobe. Silk voile and organdy is one of the smartest combinations for the summer. Particularly one of the flowered silk voiles charming and attractive for afternoon frocks. They come in many delightful colors and patterns and are not as costly as georgette. Whatever material you get, however, be sure to use a bit of organdy with it. And remember you need not always use white organdy—there are other pretty colors.

Here is a striking frock and yet it is simple in design. Bluff cloth organdy and flowered georgette are combined in a very French style. The organdy forms a front panel which is tucked with deep even tucks from neck to hem. It also makes the deep vol collar and the cuffs. The silk voile which forms the rest of the frock is of navy blue crepe in buff. The distinctive features of the frock are the narrow skirt and the very narrow little ribbon girdle which lies in front.

Miss Helen Basinger read and this was followed by a group of vocal numbers by the Missionary society.

Mrs. Dexter and committee assisted by the college girls served a delicious luncheon. At the conclusion of the program the members of the Missionary society gave a vocal number to the College girls for their interesting entertainment.

FAVORITE RECIPES

Asparagus Loaf—Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, one cup milk, made into a sauce; when boiling add two tablespoons cold left over meat chopped fine, one cup cooked mushrooms, two well-beaten eggs. Turn into a mold lined with asparagus tips. Bake standing in a dish of hot water until center is firm. Serve with cream sauce.

Stuffed Onions—Six large onions, one cup finely chopped raw beef, one cup bread crumbs, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one egg, one-fourth cup milk, one tablespoon melted butter, one-half cup cracker crumbs, one tablespoon boiling water. Parboil onions in salted water for ten minutes. Remove and drain. Remove center of each onion. Add milk and well beaten eggs to boiling water; then add onion and beef with seasonings. Fill centers of onions with mixture. Braise the top with melted butter, sprinkle with cracker crumbs. Place in baking dish and bake till onions are tender.

Butterfly Salad—Cut round slices of pineapple in half, placing one of lettuce leaf with the round edges together and an asparagus tip, cooked, between. Put thin slices of olives stuffed with pimento on the pineapple to resemble spots on a butterfly. Serve with French dressing.

CABBAGE RECIPES
Tomato Cabbage—Shave a head of cabbage (not too fine); simmer until tender, then drain all water off.

Take one tablespoon of butter, melt in frying pan, add one tablespoon of flour and blend nicely with the butter. Now strain one cup of tomato juice into this mixture, then mix your cabbage into this; salt and pepper to taste and teaspoon of sugar. Add more tomatoes if necessary.

Irish Cabbage—Cut one head of cabbage in four quarters, boil in salt water until tender, but not soft, then drain well and chop in chopping bowl.

Cut two or three slices of bacon in ones and fry until nicely browned; two large onions chopped and fried in with bacon. Now mix your chopped cabbage with the onions and fry a few minutes. You may take bacon off if you choose, but it is good with it in. Salt and pepper to taste.

Cold Slaw—Chop one-half a medium sized head of cabbage finely. Arrange on lettuce leaves and pour over it this dressing: One-half teaspoon mustard, a pinch of salt, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon condensed milk, one egg slightly beaten, two tablespoons of vinegar. Mix in the order given, adding the vinegar slowly. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens. Cool and add to the cabbage.

New Hats Resemble Flower Garden

It is the consensus of feminine opinion that no matter how fashionable a dress may be, it takes the hat to make the frock all that it should be. This summer the millinery is especially designed to go with the dainty organdy, voile and frocks, and it is a fact that fabric hats far outnumber the straw hats of the earlier summer.

In midsummer the milliners seem to reach the heights of creative art, and the big droopy garden hats are exceptionally attractive this year. Never has there been a season when hats were so heavily flower trimmed, and the hats more than ever resemble a miniature flower garden.

Whatever the hat, straw, organdy or lace, with flowers or without, it matches the gown and other accessories and makes an exquisite summer picture.

LEFT HUSBAND SO HE COULD SUCCEED FASTER

NEW YORK—"Tales of Hoffman" has no more mellifluous melodies than the notes of harmony that prevailed in a young singer's household ten years ago, when her husband's family suggested that he and she could get ahead in the world better if they were to separate.

Louis Hoffman was a bookkeeper and his wife a singer of promise before her marriage. They had two children.

Hoffman today is wealthy, head of a silk company. Mrs. Hoffman has been for some time a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company. They have been apart ten years.

Thelma Hoffman never censured her husband for his stand in the matter till a registered letter came to her home in November, 1919, telling her Hoffman had secured a divorce from her in the State of Pennsylvania on the ground of desertion.

"I could endure anything but that," she said recently. "I agreed that we might get ahead better if we separated for the time. I kept giving each of them $10 a week. I gave me nothing. I was happy, though, to be able to help myself. I got into the chorus at the Metropolitan."

"I agreed with his mother when she came to my home and talked to my mother and myself, saying I ought to separate so he could succeed."

"I saw their side of the question and agreed. There had never been any quarrelling or dissension in our home. Everything was decided agreeably. I little dreamed how things would turn out."

"I am suing now for separation on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment."

"But still I am of the opinion that a person can travel faster alone—witness my husband's rise in business, not having me to care for. For some time he has not provided for the children, either. Emma Cecelia is twenty-two now—and Florence August is twenty-five."

In her complaint Mrs. Hoffman, or Mme. Hoffman as she is known at the Metropolitan, cites as one of her acts of cruelty her husband's alleged unfaithfulness with other women. Taking the ground that his marriage to another woman is only a pretense of a marriage and constitutes ground for divorce in this State.

"My husband tried to get our two children to go to his new home and meet his new wife. What torture for me that was."

"But don't you think it would be better to have kept your husband, home and children together all these years?"

"Not necessarily," she replied thoughtfully. "Certainly not from Mr. Hoffman's standpoint. His success would not have come so quick."

ly. I think a separation is a good thing sometimes.
"I always was agreeable in regard to any change he suggested. It is cruel that he should have abused my confidence and kindness by securing a divorce from me in another State."

"But you see there was another woman—what a difference the other woman makes in a man. How they forget everything when the other woman beckons?"

The story of Mrs. Hoffman's alleged wrongs raises the question whether self-sacrifice is wise for a woman. Has a wife who allows her husband to separate from her, tacitly acknowledging herself to be burdensome, the right to expect that she can hope for fair treatment?

Men have a way of taking a woman at the value she places on herself. If a woman admits to her husband that she is an encumbrance and that he could rise to great heights without her, the chances are that he will believe what she says.

For what purpose does a man wish to succeed if not to make his dear ones happy? Some such incentive goes every man on to great effort. Once the direct incentive is removed, trust to masculine instinct to replace it immediately.

It would behoove every wife who loves her husband, and doesn't wish to court cruel treatment, not to let her lord and master regard her as an encumbrance, but to strive to make him value her as a precious being, to serve whom is a privilege.

The very best of women are on this point of themselves. If Mrs. Hoffman's separation from her husband ten years ago had this idea alone as its basis, then it was a mistake.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a young girl eighteen years old. I am in love with a young man nineteen years old. It just seems as if I can't live without him. I was with him for five months and learned to love him and I think he loved me, too.

I was supposed to meet him in church one night and I did not go. He got angry because I did not go and after that he did not call up or ask to take me any place. I miss him awfully.

Whenever we meet we always speak. He seems to be very nice, but never comes up to me and talks. I have been to quite a few places where he was, but he never came to me. It is my place to go to him and talk?

Do you think he still loves me? What shall I do? Would it be right for me to call him up or write to him, or should I wait until he writes first?

BROKEN-HEARTED.
A young person of nineteen cannot be expected to have a lasting love. The young man probably found some other girl he liked better and therefore used your disappointment him as an excuse to break away from you.

Do not try to start a conversation with him; if he wants to talk to you he will find a way. It would also be foolish to phone or write to him. Stop thinking about him and in a surprisingly short time you will find you no longer care for him.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a widow 28 years old and considered very beautiful. I have four children, the youngest being two years old. I am deeply in love with a young man about my age who is also married but cares nothing for his wife. He has a lot of money and offers me money every time I am in need.

Would you advise me to take money from him? I am in doubt whether to do so or not.

He says he will get a divorce and marry me if I will consent, but I want to do the right thing. Do you suppose he actually cares for me?

AMERICAN BEAUTY.
You ought to have known before writing that I would say not to take the money. Such a thing would be dishonest because you would be accepting what rightfully belonged to another woman.

The man shows he cannot be trusted or he would not make love to you as he does when he is married to another woman. You are not doing right as long as you see him. Give him up entirely and you will be happier in the end. You have no reason to know that his love for you will be any more lasting than his love for his first wife.

DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

BY PHILLIP PHILLIPS
LINDSEY SELLS A PAINTING

Well, well, wonders will never cease. I have actually sold a cover to a magazine, and I have to pinch myself to make sure that it was I, Lindsey, who had accomplished the same.

The family could hardly believe it when I told them—and as for Jack!

It was this way. At our little luncheon yesterday Prince Charming told me that he had noticed a girl head that was awfully well done, and that I was a little goose not to try to make a name for myself, no matter how humble, and immediately.

He suggested my selling that head, which, from his description, was that poor old dear little Jean, and to a good magazine. At first I ridiculed the idea, and scorned any such commercial transaction, but when he pointed out that that was the only way to independence, the kind I adored, and dreamed of, why I thought different.

After luncheon we all walked round to my studio and looked at the painting and it did look pretty good to us. But never in my wildest flights of fancy had I considered it possible for me to sell any of my work.

It is Prince Charming who set my young feet on the road to success—could anything be more fitting or romantic?

At four o'clock I was sitting in a conference with the art editor of Wesley's magazine, inwardly shivering, but outwardly as cool and composed as a cucumber.

We talked for a long time and would you believe it, that guileless soul thought that I was an old hand at selling covers and praised my technique highly! You can imagine how I felt. I was right in the clouds floating as I had never floated before, and yet had to stand on this puny earth because of an editor and the business end of it all.

"Friends, Romans, Countrymen," as the famous words go, at four-thirty I had received my very first check for a painting of mine. Yes, sir, the very first, and was walking out of that blessed man's office with burning cheeks and a tear very near to the corner of my eye, a tear of the most divine joy that ever welled to the eye of young and ambitious girlhood!

Outside, in the hallway three eager, young conferees awaited my coming—and news—with palpitating hearts, and when they heard and saw the check (a pretty substantial one) they whooped in chorus!

Without doubt it was the proudest moment of my life.

I threw my arm around Prince Charming and gave him a voluntary hug on the spot. He turned quite dull red with pleasure. But he was surely entitled to it, for I had got something over, and without doubt would do so again. Viva la Liberté!

Then we all went off to a little place that we know of—in the heart of the village, a sort of artist's hole in the wall, and celebrated. In the midst of our hilarity Laura quietly drew out a blue check from her bag and laid it on the table before our astonished eyes. It was made out to Jean Jordan and was for one hundred dollars in payment for a short story!

That was an even greater shock to us than my little deal, to think of little Laura being an author, and in secret, and in spite of all get out, as the new saying goes, to find time to write. It was the millennium!

Not only that, but there have been several of Jean Jordan's stories in various magazines of late. She, too, it seems is on the road to fame. Of course old Morgan had known it all along—and he was so proud and happy to be able to tell us just how she had worked—against all sorts of odds and often in the depths of his snug studio. It was like a fairy tale. Their future was assured, for with both of the young people contributing to household expenses there would never be any quarrels. It was a wonderful day for all of us. (To be continued)

LOVE AND MARRIED LIFE

BY IDA MCGLONE GIBSON

IS JOHN BEGINNING TO UNDERSTAND?

"I am quite sure," said Elizabeth, as we went down to the car, "that you won't be back in time to tell the men where you want the goods placed. Shall I do it for you?"

"Just tell them to put them anywhere," John called back without turning his head, "haven't the slightest idea what Katherine wants to do with any of it, and we will have plenty of help to put them in place."

"It isn't necessary for you to come, John," I said, as we got into the car, "surely you must have some business this morning that needs your attention."

"I have nothing that is pressing except to get that house in shape so that we can sleep there tomorrow night, if possible."

I smiled a little to myself as I thought of how John, writhing under the amount of money which must be paid out every day for us at the hotel, and I confess I was a little bit happy to think that for once in all the time that we had been married, I had bested him in money matters. Alas and alack! I did not know what was in store for me in the future, and it is well that I did not.

I reached home just in time for the baby's feeding, and as usual with her in my arms I forgot everything but her sweetness and the comfort that she always brought me.

Baby Has Been Fretting
"I am glad that you have come, Mrs. Gordon," said Miss Parker, "for the baby has been fretting and I think that she has caught a little cold. But as soon as she has nursed I am sure that she will be better and raise her nap as usual."

John fidgeted about the room. I was not sure just what made him so nervous and yet I was not particularly surprised when he burst out: "I don't understand, Katherine, why Elizabeth told you that she had not been in the house before."

"Well, my dear, you didn't really tell me that she had been."

"Are you still here, Elizabeth?" he asked briskly.

"Turn Her Face"

She gave a start and turned her face. "Why, yes," she said. "Didn't you expect to find me?"

"I didn't think anything about it," he answered gruffly.

"Well, I thought that I would remain, as Alice was going to," she rather timidly ventured, "but now that you and Katherine have come I think I shall be going."

"Tell my chauffeur to take you home in the car, Elizabeth," I said, for I really pitied her.

"I can walk," she answered. "I think that I need the exercise."

"That is the first time that I ever knew Elizabeth to walk when she might ride," said John as she went out the door.

"I don't think that she would have objected, John, if it had been you who offered the motor," said Alice.

John looked slightly bewildered, but Alice smiled at me. She understood perfectly, and as John went out to direct the men who had just come up with a furniture van she turned and said: "I believe upon my soul, Katherine, that at last John Gordon is seeing just where that woman is going to lead him if you will let her."

"I am not sure, Alice," I answered. "John, as you know, with his one-track mind, is only thinking of getting me and the baby and the entire family into this house and shut off the $40 per day that we are paying to the hotel."

"Maybe so, maybe so," she retorted, "but I think there is a glimmer of light beginning to permeate his brain."

The Yanks Are Setting Pretty to Do a Little Yanking But Still There's a Chance Of Getting Yanked Themselves

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD CHANGE

WEDNESDAY'S HERO — "Two-gun" Rip Collins. The Texas ranger went in with the bases filled in the ninth inning and the Indians one run behind and fanned Chapman for the third out, the Yanks winning 4 to 3.

Elliott, the Dodger's strong-arm catcher, unworked another peg to center field and gave the Pirates the run that won the game 4 to 3.

Phil Douglas, celebrating his latest return as a prodigal rushed to the relief of Fred Toney when the Reds were leading him badly and stopped the champions, the Giants winning 5 to 3.

Joe Jackson's homer kept Jones from blanking the White Sox, the game going to the Red Sox 2 to 1.

Bill Dink scored from first in the 12th inning on a double and a wild throw and won his game from the Braves 3 to 2.

Bayne and Southern both wobbled in the light places, while the Athletics beat the Browns 7 to 2.

BOSTON BUYS FIELDER

The Boston Red Sox have purchased outfielder Ben Paschal from the Charlotte club of the South Atlantic league.

Paschal was given a trial with the Cleveland Indians in 1915, then turned over to New Orleans, which sent him on down to Charlotte. He has been hitting hard with Charlotte this season, his work being marked by many long drives, and Ed Holly, who scouted him up for the Red Sox, says he has arrived at last.

YANKS FIGHT TO OUST CLEVELAND FROM FIRST PLACE

BY JOE BERNSTEIN

WHAT is possibly the most crucial series that either of the two big leagues has seen thus far this year, is at present keeping the city of New York supplied with enough baseball action to satisfy any town.

The Cleveland Indians and the Yankees opened Wednesday at the Polo grounds in a fight for first place. And the Yankees grabbed off the first game after Mays had been sent to the showers by the tribe's onslaught, and after Rip Collins had gone in in the ninth and pulled the team out of a terrible hole by striking out Chapman.

But it will take more than the one game to oust the Ohio team from first place. With the defeat of yesterday to contend with, the Indians still have a lead of about a game and a half, on their slugging rivals. It will take some hefty ball playing to maintain that lead or better it while in New York.

Yet Tris Speaker, the playing manager of the Tribe is setting a wonderful example for his outfit. Out of three official trips to the plate in the initial game of the series, he gleaned two hits and one of the three runs. That's the kind of a manager Tris is. He expects no more of his men than he can do himself, but he can do a lot.

Babe Ruth went to bat officially, three times in Wednesday's game and was able to get nothing from Caldwell's deliveries.

It was the excellent work of Rip Collins who, with the bases full, struck out Chapman for the third out, and stopped a very promising rally that might have made a different story of the game.

AND THE CINCINNATI REDS LOSE TOO

The dope was spilled again Wednesday when the Reds met and were defeated by the second division Giants.

Fisher was apparently unable to lead the Giant swarms as he had in the past for he was pulled from the box about the middle of the game and Salley was sent in to finish the contest. The score gave the game to the Giants 5 to 2, and the clumps dropped their heads in humiliation. But the standings were not affected as much as they might have been had Brooklyn been playing some other team besides the occupants of the third position.

Pittsburgh took a neat battle from the strong Superba outfit by the narrow margin of one run—nevertheless one run is all you need to win, and they won.

It looks like the Reds are hung up in second place for the rest of the season, if they don't drop any further. The loss of their freak ball pitcher has been a sad blow to them and it seems hardly possible that they will be able to pull thru in the lead with the present hurling staff.

It will be a hard battle for them to stick in second place even for the rest of the season.

McGRAW WILL TRY HOME MADE POLICY ONCE MORE

BY SID MERR

They say that John J. McGraw has decided to return to the old, sound system of developing his Giants from the abundant raw material instead of buying them on the hoof from the other clubs.

McGraw is combing the tall grass for young players as it has not been raked in years by his scouts. The will inspect a large consignment of green talent next Spring and will carry as much of this material as the league regulations will permit.

Back in the golden days of the Giants many budding athletes were carefully nurtured by McGraw for months before bursting into radiant bloom. George Burns sat on the bench for a year before his name finally came. Dave Robertson, Arthur Fletcher, Charley Horzon, Ross Young, Jeff Tetreau and Earl Smith were a few McGraw-made players who were developed either on the bench or by some minor league manager closely associated with McGraw.

The Giants of those days were colorful. They reflected the spirit of a great leader and, in our opinion, the most progressive baseball director the game ever knew.

McGraw is not given to discussing his baseball ambitions, but he cherishes a dream to win one world's championship before he steps out as a field leader. He failed miserably in 1911 and 1913, and he was outlived in 1912 and 1917. But we believe that if he can rebuild his team with fresh, young material within the next two years, he will step out on the coaching lines again and be the McGraw of old.

WILL TRIS SPEAKER BE ABLE TO TURN THE TRICK FOR CLEVELAND

Tris Speaker, manager of Indians left and Bert Niehaus, who may hurt today's game against the Yanks.

If the remainder of the Indian outfit will follow the example set for them by their manager, Tris Speaker, there should be little question about who will rate first in the American league. Tris is one of the leading swatsmen, best fielders, and best playing manager in either league.

OPINIONS DIFFER ON GEORGES' ABLITY

Leo Flynn, who manages Bill Brennan, doesn't think very well of Carpenter.

"Where do you get this stuff about the Frenchman being such a wonderful fighter?" queries Leo in a plaintive voice.

"Why, look over his record and show me if you can where he has that kind of a reputation coming. Joe Jeannette was as good as handicapped when Carpenter beat him. Willie Lewis was thru a couple of times before he ever saw Carpenter. And look what Payke and several other Americans did to Georges. Knocked him for a goal, didn't they?"

Sure they did. I'll bet my shirt that Georges don't beat Levinsky if he ever rights him, let alone fellows like Dempsey and Brennan. Why, Bill Brennan would make a sausage out of him."

And by way of amplifying his "wonderful" opinion of the Frenchman Leo offered his parting shot: "Anybody who got a reputation by beating such fellows as poor old Blink McCloskey can't amount to much. What a wonderful exhibition that has been!"

Leo, however, doesn't agree with him.

"I think Georges is a great fighter," smiled Kearns. "He must be good and we all know he can hit. That's why I figure he'd make a great match with Dempsey, tho, of course, Jack will beat him if they ever get together. For that matter, I don't expect to have to talk business with Carpenter after he meets Levinsky."

Surviving for the second round of the K. C. Recreation building, short billiard tournament, are eight men who won matches played Wednesday night.

The winners are: D. J. Stolly, H. G. Barrington, Lawrence Harroff, C. Johnson, A. T. Mulcahy, Carl Carter, Tom Daly and Roy Sealts. Sealts was the winner in the first of the series of short tournaments.

It is expected that the tournament will be completed tonight.

YACHTS WAIT CRUCIAL TEST FRIDAY

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK. — New hope pervaded the American yachting camp Thursday while the crew of Resolute was giving America's cup defender a "rubdown" in preparation for the race Friday that will mean defeat or another chance for victory.

Wednesday's victory, which was in the nature of a penalty to Shamrock IV for her superior size, made the score two and one in races and inspired the defenders with the belief chances of the Lipton craft are very poor because of her great time allowance.

Similar belief apparently prevails in the ranks of the British yachtsmen, whose dreams of taking the cup back to England in three straight races was shattered Wednesday by the game little American, which sailed a dead heat with the big challenger in a boat-for-boat race.

In the hope of cutting down the big time allowance, which in the light of Wednesday's developments seems a hopeless handicap, Captain Burton has decided to remove the big topmast of the challenger. This will decrease the big handicap to six minutes and 40 seconds from seven minutes and one second, according to H. DeB. Parsons, chairman of the race committee.

The fourth heat of the race Wednesday was historic in that for the first time in the long history of the cup races, two contesting sloops sailed a dead heat. The green challenger got away 19 seconds ahead of the defender and finished ahead by exactly the same margin.

Some fear, lingering from the first race, that Resolute would not be able to hold together, when she withstood a blow that heeled her until her rail was well awash thrust most of the race. Experts pronounce Friday's race as the crucial one of the series.

Sailed over the triangular course in which the superiority of the Lipton sloop was shown Tuesday. It will give a slight advantage to the challenger, it is believed. If Resolute wins, it will bring about a tie of two races each and will bring the decisive heat up Saturday over the windward and leeward course which the American craft has shown an advantage.

Captain Burton sailed a much better race Wednesday on Shamrock IV than he had in the preceding heats. The superior generalship of Skipper Adams, generally conceded before, was not so obvious. But the work of the American crew was much better than that of the Britishers.

Sir Thomas Linton, owner of the challenger, and perhaps the most colorful figure of the races, did not lose any of his optimism Wednesday when his million-dollar bid for the cup was hefted.

He ordered his yacht Victor back to the Resolute and led his guests in a rousing cheer for the defender.

LIQUOR INSURANCE HIGH

NEW YORK.—Insurance companies here announced the inclusion of liquor clauses in their burglary policies to protect owners of private stock. A charge of 20 per cent a year of the original value of the stock is made for the hazard, and only one-fifth of the total amount of the policy may be on liquor.

DAYTON.—Bryan Downey, Columbus and Ralph Schappert, Wilkesbarre, fought 12 round draw.

They gave the Cubs four bases on balls in the fourth, but it was the only run the Braves were able to score. Alexander the great was off color and the Phils won 6 to 1.

'OUR MARY' GREAT IN 'SUDS'

Plot is Limp, But Pickford Ability Makes it Winner

HORSE SECOND BEST IN CAST

Regent's Current Offering Calendar of Lima Theatres

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

GIVEN a picture with a limp plot, Mary Pickford, nevertheless, manages to make a real film out of it, one that ticks at your heartstrings and tickles your funny bone at the same time. The picture in question is "Suds," showing at the Regent this week.

"Our Mary" has the part of little Amanda Afflick, laundry drudge and slave, who weaves a tale of romance about a shirt. This shirt had been left at the laundry by a man named Horace. (Amanda calls him "Oroce") who never returned for it. Being of an imaginative turn of mind and gaining much pleasure from this imagination, Amanda proceeds to regale her companions with a story of how her dad, the arch-dog, turned her out into a cold, cold world to be loved for herself alone and not for her money. It's during the narration of this tale that we see Mary as she really is, a beautiful specimen of womanhood. But in the character of Amanda, she outdoes anything she has attempted thus far in acting. No one would recognize her if they didn't know who was starred in the production, and the preface of the film announces Madame someone-or-other as "Costume." Mary evidently didn't get the benefit of the same costume's art, for she wears the same dress, or rather, outfit, during the whole of the piece.

Second to Mary, the best one in the cast is the horse, Lavender. Old Lavender is every bit as good a character actor as Mary, can look intelligent when he is supposed to, look bored to death and even cry when occasion calls for brine. Lavender is the best friend of the heroine, and some of the most humorous scenes have the ancient nag as the center.

Taken generally, "Suds" is fine entertainment for both old and young. The sub-titles are snappy all the way thru, and a very finished and realistic film is the result. But as a youngster behind me remarked, "Gee, but the ending's awful!" And it is. She doesn't marry a millionaire, neither is she rescued by a wealthy uncle. She continues to be Amanda Afflick, better known as "Sudsie."

LIMA MEN TAKEN SECOND TIME

Weagley Bros. and Brown Are Charged With Tire Theft

Three men were being held in the city prison Thursday, pending the filing of charges of burglary and grand larceny by Lake Erie and Western officials, and Detective Ford Cole, of the L. E. and W. said a fourth man alleged to be implicated in the burglary would be arrested late Thursday.

The three men held in Lima, according to Cole are two brothers, Cornelius and Earl Weagley, 228 E. Second-st., and W. J. Brown, 22, 1110 Forest-ave. The men returned here from Wapakoneta after being released by the sheriff of Auglaize co, Cole said. They are charged with implication in the robbery of a Lake Erie and Western car of sixteen 32x4 automobile tires and 24 inner tubes, said to have been removed from the car at a point one mile from St. Marys. The fourth man said to be implicated in the alleged robbery is Sam Weagley, a brother of the two Weagley's held here, and an employee of the L. E. and W. railway.

Brown is said by Detective Cole to have confessed to a plot for the robbery of the car and the other three men, he said, were implicated by Brown's confession.

Cole said the men will be tried in federal court at Toledo.

"H. C. L." STANDS FOR HIGH COST OF LIQUOR

ATLANTA, Ga.—Owing to the astronomical prices of the cost of liquor, or other reasons not stated, persons inclined to prohibition in Georgia and ultra-liberal views in Cuba will be forced to pay $10 for passports in the future. The old fee of $2 became a thing of memory, according to J. C. Boone, deputy clerk, who attends to the details of putting the official visa on applications for passports to Czechoslovakia, Finland, Kamchatka, but most particularly Cuba.

Travel to Cuba from the Atlantic is not as brisk as in the past. The records in Mr. Boone's office indicate that only one voyager to the island of Bacchante is registered every twenty-four hours, and some of these applications are really business trips.

Cuba the authorities at the Federal Building are reliably informed is not under the benevolent protection of the Anti-Saloon League.

OHIO FACES GAS SHORTAGE

Expert Gives Advice on Details of Saving

WASTE WRONG TO OTHERS

Proper Appliances Will Aid in Conservation of Fuel

COLUMBUS — Ohio people face a worse gas shortage than ever this winter, unless steps are taken at once to conserve gas thru the elimination of waste, says Samuel S. Wyer, consulting natural gas engineer of the Bureau of Mines.

Wyer points out that three-fourths of the state's population is dependent on natural gas and that 36 percent of all the domestic consumers in the United States are residents of Ohio. It is estimated natural gas consumers in Ohio could save $14,000,000 worth of gas annually if they would carry out suggestions of the national conservation committee for elimination of waste.

"The war gas is used in the average household, each family uses enough for three families and pays for that amount of gas," says Wyer. Even if the people have so much money they don't mind paying for three times as much gas as they need, they ought to consider the fact that they are depriving other families of the gas they waste. The mere elimination of waste in households would prolong the life of natural gas in this state from 15 to 20 years."

"Among suggestions for saving gas made by Wyer in a recent issue of the Bureau of Mines bulletin are these:

See that the gas is properly burned by the proper mixture of air. If there is a perfect combustion there will be a blue flame.

Have the burners adjusted so they are not more than 1-4 inches below the vessel. Most burners, even those on modern stoves, are too low. This means that you have to turn the gas up high to get results and in times of low pressure you get no results at all. A very small blue flame from a burner close to the stove will heat water as quickly as a long flame below the utensil. This is one of the greatest sources of waste.

Never use solid tops on gas stoves. Only grid tops should be used.

Eliminate all leaks at the gas cocks, in the pipes and fittings. A leak of only one cubic foot an hour means a loss of one-twelfth of the average householder's annual consumption.

Don't turn the gas on until you are ready to use it and turn it off immediately after using.

Adjust your gas lamps properly. Hissing or roaring indicates waste.

Do not use circular burners under water tanks unless an outer jacket is used to keep in the heat.

Do not allow gas lamps to burn in the daytime.

Never use gas in coal or wood stoves.

Because Ohio has been using natural gas for years, there are more wasteful appliances in use here than elsewhere in the country, according to Wyer. He suggests that distribution companies in all cities at once issue orders for the replacement or improvement of these appliances, and that in each case the order if the order is not complied with, the gas be turned off.

OHIO TOWN GASLESS PAINESVILLE, Ohio. — Painesville was gasless Thursday, following the suspension of the gas plant due to lack of fuel. A carload of coal was "rushed" to Painesville 12 days ago, but it has been held in the Clevelands since July 15.

The teacher gazed sorrowfully at the small boy who stood in front of her. He was convicted of the heinous charge of stealing coffee from one of his school fellows.

As it was his first offense, however, she did not desire to inflict corporal punishment—a moral lecture, she felt, would fit the case.

"Bear in mind, Bobby," she concluded, "that these temptations can be resisted if determination is used. Always turn a deaf ear to temptation."

The child gazed solemnly at her. "But, teacher," he exclaimed, "I aint got a deaf ear!"

The fashionable physician tenderly greeted his patient.

"Well, Mrs. Adams," he asked, "what do you think is the matter with you this morning?"

"Doctor, I hardly know," murmured the fashionable lady languidly. "What's new?"

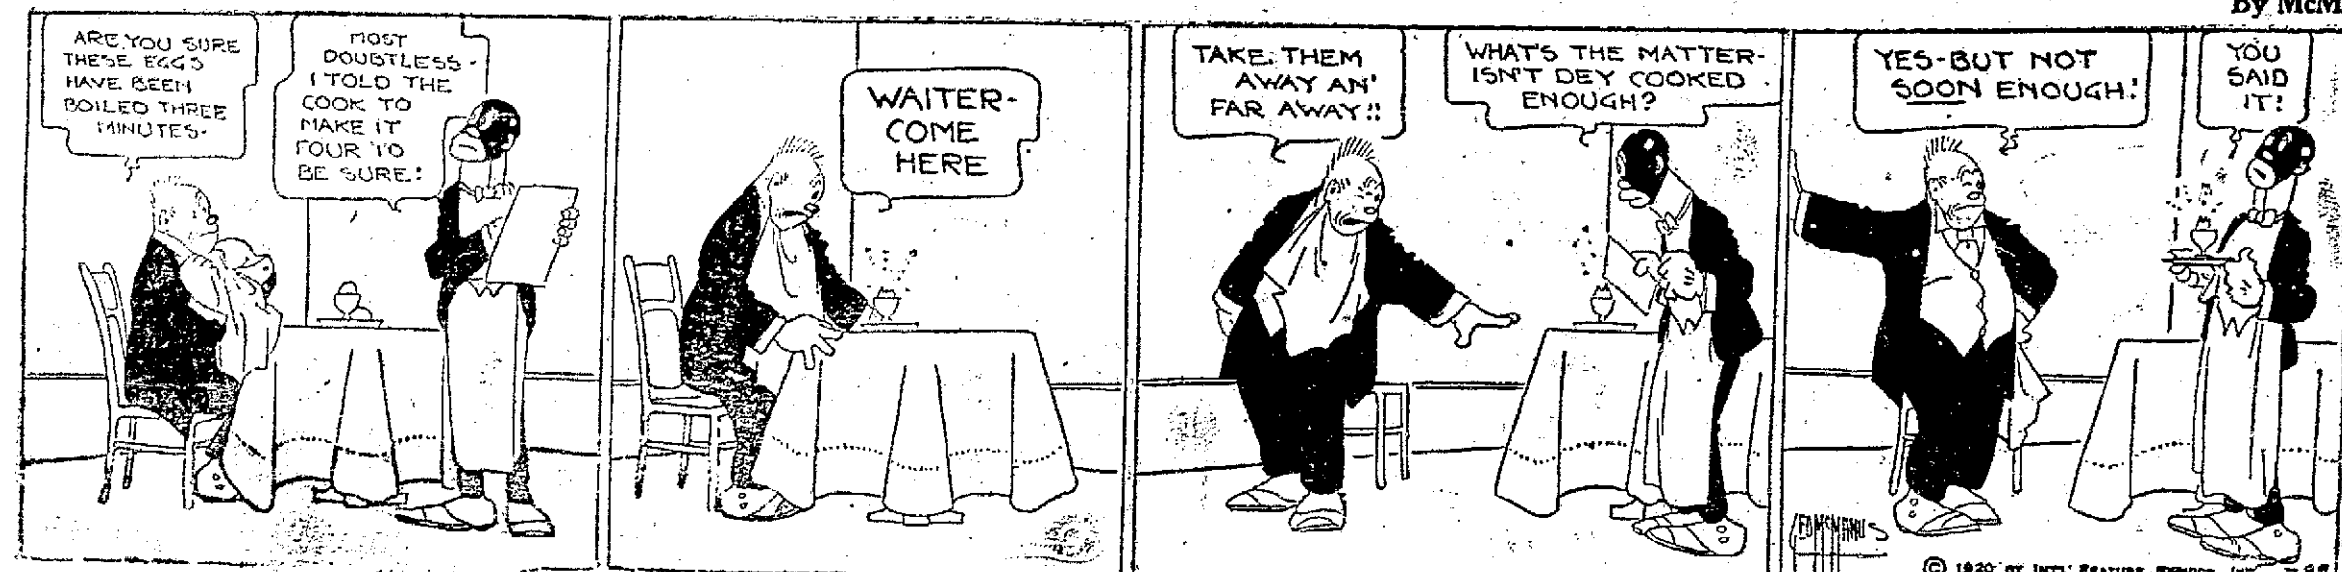

"You don't know how much you have cheered me, said the fashionable physician.

"Why, doctor, how can I, a sick man, cheer you?"

"Because you are really sick and need my professional skill to cure you. Most of my patients are rich people with imaginary ailments. I'm glad to get a chance now and then to practice something besides deception."

Simply Worn Out

How Many Women Are Like This?

Can anything be more wearing for women than the ceaseless round of household duties? Oh! the monotony of it all—work and drudge; no time to be sick; tired, ailing, yet cannot stop. There comes a time when something "snaps" and they find themselves "simply worn out," and to make matters worse, have contracted serious feminine disorder which almost always follows the constant overtaxing of a woman's strength.

Then they should remember that there is no remedy like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—the experience of these two women establishes that fact:

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—"After the birth of my last child I had such painful spots that would not let me entirely for any household work. I suffered for months and the doctor said that my trouble was organic ulcers and I would have to have an operation. That was an awful thing to me, with a young baby and four other children, so one day I thought of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it had helped me years before and I decided to try it again. I took five bottles of Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and since then I have been a well woman, able to take care of my house and family without any trouble or a day's pain. I am ready and thankful to swear by your medicine any time. I am forty-four years old and have not had a day's illness of any kind for three years."

Mrs. H. Koenig, 67 Ellis Blvd., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
